HILLS BANK

Welcome to Our New Website

Whether you're buying a home, planning for retirement, growing a business, or simply looking for answers to everyday financial questions, we've always believed banking should come with trusted guidance. That's why we've redesigned our website to make it easier to find the tools, resources, and advice you need to move forward with confidence.

While the website address (www.HillsBank.com) isn't changing, you'll notice a cleaner design, simplified navigation, and an improved experience across desktop, tablet, and mobile devices.

What's New?

Easier Navigation

Finding what you're looking for should feel natural. We've reorganized the site to make it easier to explore our products and services, including a clearer Personal Banking section that brings checking, savings, mortgages, and other personal financial solutions together in one place.

More Ways to Learn

Making informed financial decisions starts with having access to reliable information. We've expanded educational resources across the site and made it easier to access blogs, calculators, guides, and other tools designed to help you understand your options.

Downloadable Financial Education

Found an article you'd like to save or share? Many of our educational resources now include a "View this blog as a PDF" option, making it easy to print, download, or pass along helpful information to family and friends.

Expanded FAQs

We've created a more robust FAQ library based on customer feedback. Instead of searching across the site, visitors can now access answers from a centralized FAQ hub covering many of our most asked questions.

Improved Personal Banking & Location Pages

Every core account we offer now has its own dedicated website page, making it easier to compare options and find details that matter. We've also created dedicated pages for each Hills Bank location – bookmark your favorite office to always have its info on hand!

Better Behind the Scenes

Some improvements aren't immediately visible, but they're just as important. We've updated the site's structure, search capabilities, accessibility features, and content organization to create a faster, more intuitive experience today while making it easier to continue improving the site over time.

This launch is just the beginning. We'll continue enhancing our website with new content, resources, and tools while delivering the local service and support you've come to expect from Hills Bank. Thank you for banking with us!

Read this blog online.